

ABSTRACT

A new kind of insect-resistant food container is presented which uses physical means including a sticky polymer to trap insects and prevent them from reaching the food. The typical implementation of this invention is a bowl on a pedestal with a sticky polymer trap under the bowl rim, where it cannot be seen.